NEWS OVERLOAD

A busy, busy weekend resulted in much more news than will fit in this week's issue. Please bear with us, and we will catch up next week.

Chamber studies agricultural outlook

District Agriculturalist Kirsty Piquette visited the March 7 meeting of the Elk Point and District Chamber of Commerce with a pre-Agriculture Week report on the outlook for the farming industry in 1990.

Mrs. Piquette told the Chamber that weather around the world plays a factor in the price of grain and oilseeds. Stocks at the present time are low, and a major disaster affecting crops in another country could reflect back in higher prices for our commodities. Given stable weather conditions, Mrs. Piquette feels prices "will stay about the same" with no major fluctuation in sight.

Beef cattle prices will also stay at present levels, Mrs. Piquette said, although the price of calves could be down 5 percent from 1989 levels in the last quarter of the year. There is a 50 percent chance that producers will receive a payment under the tripartite stabilization plan, the first time for the plan to "kick in" since its inception, she noted. The consensus of the industry shows that over the next 4 years, cattle prices may drop 5 percent each year. The price decline is "coming later than we originally thought it would," Mrs. Piquette said, adding that the fluctuations in the value of the Canadian dollar also affect the prices of slaughter and feeder cattle.

The hog stabilization program will not come to an end, Mrs. Piquette predicted, because such a move on the part of the government would be "political suicide." Some producers derive up to 30 percent of their income from the program, she said. Hog pricing will be higher in the first half of 1990, and continue to climb in the fall. Prices at the present are 10 cents higher than at this time last year, when they were at their lowest ebb in 14 years. Mrs. Piquette also commented that "the packing plants have to straighten themselves out," in the interests of the hog production industry.

Both the dairy and poultry sectors are controlled by supply management, but "indications are not bad," Mrs. Piquette said. Chamber President Millie Orr, who is both a businessperson and a dairy farmer, noted that free trade could cause lower quality and lower priced products to come in from the USA. "It doesn't look rosy," she said.

Mrs. Piquette agreed that free trade will have an effect on all sectors of agriculture, and cautioned the Chamber, "don't look for any booms out there."

Proud 4-H Public Speakers

Hunting, trespassing concerns studied

With oil activity at a low level in the Elk Point area, the Elk Point Surface Rights Association has turned their attention to problems with hunting, trespassing, rustling and rural crime which have infringed on the rights of landowners and residents in the district to enjoy the control of their property.

A large group of rural residents filled the lower level of Elk Point Elks Hall last Monday evening to hear speakers from the Farmers' Advocate, Brand Inspection, RCMP, Department of Agriculture and Department of Fish and Wildlife address these issues. The meeting was sponsored by Norcen Energy Resources, Pan Canadian Petroleum and Amoco Canada.

In opening the meeting, Surface Rights Association President Alban Bugej noted that the rural community "has nothing against wildlife—they don't open gates, shoot cattle or tear down fences." Rather, the concern lies with hunters, which he explained are of two types: "the local boys wanting to put meat in the freezer," and guides and their out-of-province clients who "don't always follow the rules," and who have been known to commit such offences as trespassing, damaging property and hunting out of season.

Bugej also expressed a concern with an increase in cattle rustling, which he feels stems from the disbanding in 1987 of the RCMP's cattle investigation unit, due to budget cuts, and with a general increase in rural crime.

Cliff Norman of the Farmers' Advocate Office gave a brief rundown on the assistance which can be obtained through that office. "Any farmer or rancher who feels he has suffered an injustice can approach us for help," Norman, who has an RCMP background, commented briefly on the cutbacks in rural RCMP protection, and expressed a hope that the livestock section will return to help educate detachment members who are not rurally oriented to better serve the outlying communities.

Interpretations of trespassing under the British Common Law and the Criminal Code, as well as the Petty Trespass Act, were outlined briefly. Under British Common Law, the owner or lessee of a property can seek damages through the court from anyone who trespasses on that property, without the land being posted. The Criminal Code allows the use of "whatever force necessary" to remove trespassers, with a trespasser who resists deemed to have committed assault. The Petty Trespass Act makes it unlawful for any person to trespass for any reason, upon privately owned land or public land subject to disposition under the public lands act, except a grazing lease or permit, if the person has been notified by word of mouth or by signs stating "NO TRESPASSING." The grazing lease or permit is the subject of a current court case in southern Alberta, and a decision regarding this will be made in the near future. Norman noted that a Crown lease gives the lessee surface rights, including the right to deny access, evict trespassers and ask for recompense for wilful damages.

District Agriculturalist Terry Holmgren spoke on the importance of agriculture in Alberta, where less than 4 percent of the population is rural, yet they contribute 25 percent of the economic activity. He also gave the results of a Quebec survey of the impact of snowmobile traffic on hayfields. Thirty regularly travelled trails, each travelled between 800 and 2400 times during the winter, showed legume yield reductions of up to 24 percent along with an increase in weed growth, due to soil chilling when compaction of snow reduced its insulating properties. Holmgren noted that here, with more severe temperatures, the damage from this type of traffic could be even more significant.

Regional Brand Inspector Norman Doull reported that during the past year, 3.5 million cattle have been inspected in Alberta. An increase in direct sales rather than through auction marts was noted, with 15 percent of inspections done out in the country. Doull feels that the brand inspection department is notably self sufficient, with 70 percent of the department's wages covered by brand inspection charges. Regarding the livestock section of the RCMP, Doull said "we need em back", and "we need em bad," as thorough investigations are a deterrent to further livestock theft.

Doull expressed a concern with community pastures, where animals do not have to pass through a brand inspection before being loaded for transport to other parts of the province. "There should be some tightening up" in regards to this, Doull said. "We'd be glad to go and check them."

Manifests for cattle hauling are "for your protection," Doull said. "We want to see the paperwork." The manifest book gives proof of how many cattle you took to each destination.

Surface rights studies hunting

Constable Al Stockley of the Elk Point RCMP Detachment told the gathering that he will be working with the Fish and Wildlife Department next fall to follow up complaints regarding hunting and trespassing. Regarding the latter, he noted "we don't want you out there grabbing on to people—get a licence plate number and we'll look after it." Stockley said the RCMP will be working toward rejuvenating the Rural Crime Watch, and introducing rural security systems in the near future.

Gordon McCuaig also addressed the Rural Crime Watch issue, noting that there will be a meeting set up in the next few weeks to get that group reorganized and back on the lookout for potential problems.

A joint presentation by Regional Director of Fish and Wildlife Ray Makowecki and Fish and Wildlife officer Wayne Brown explored a variety of topics, ranging from the Wildlife Act to the new quota system for non-resident and non-resident alien hunters, with the help of a slide presentation.

Brown explained the Wildlife Act, which prohibits hunting or the discharge of firearms over occupied land without the consent of the owner or occupant. Occupied land was defined as "privately owned land under cultivation or enclosed by a fence, and not exceeding one section, where the owner or occupant actually resides" or "any other privately owned land within 1 mile of the land referred to previously, owned or leased by the same owner or occupant." Neither posting of the land or verbal warning to the trespasser is required in this case. "It is the responsibility of the hunter to know where he is and to get permission to hunt there," Brown said. "County maps show who the owners are. Plan where you're going to go, don't just climb in the truck and take off."

Much of the presentation dealt with guided hunters. Outfitting operations employ licenced guides who take non-resident (Canadians from outside of Alberta) or non-resident alien (non-Canadian) hunters out to hunt for big game. A ratio of two hunters to one guide is permitted.

This year, for the first time, non-resident and non-resident alien hunting licences are available only through the outfitting companies, who have placed bids for them. The quota system allocates the licences on a basis of the harvest for that area. For example, Wildlife Management Unit 258, which surrounds Elk Point and St. Paul, has an estimated white-tail population of 2260 animals. The male harvest goal is 10 percent of this, or 226 animals. Of these, approximately 3 percent, or 7 deer, may be harvested by non-residents or non-resident aliens under the system. Therefore, assuming a success rate of 50 percent, 14 non-resident or non-resident alien licences to hunt white-tail were available for WMU 258. The new system, with its reduced number of hunters, is expected to change things drastically and cut down significantly on the conflict between hunters and guides and landowners.

In addition, guides must now produce written permission to go on any property. Falsifying these documents would be considered fraud, punishable under the Criminal Code.

Makowecki noted that both resident and non-resident hunters, and the economic businesses they support help to make it feasible to retain areas of wildlife habitat to enhance the environment. Hunters also contribute to the tourism industry.

Kitscoty Competitors

Five of Elk Point Skating club's younger skaters went to Kitscoty on March 3 to compete in the Ladies' Pre-Preliminary Event. Elks Hockey

Series tied 2-2

The largest crowd ever to attend an Elk Point Senior Elks hockey game packed the A. G. Ross Arena last Saturday evening for the replaying of the much disputed March 1 Sask-Alta Playoff game between the Elks and Kitscoty Monarchs. Fans for both teams were very vocal in support of their favorites.

The replay bore little resemblance to the original contest, with considerably less penalties and seven less goals, six of them missing off the Elks side of the score sheet.

The Elks opened the scoring this time, with a power play goal by Kerry Loughran, assisted by Murray Cochrane just under 4 minutes into the game. Kitscoty took heart from a short-handed goal halfway through the period to start a six goal runaway that lasted well into the second period. The Elks scored again near the end of the second period, with Jim Vinge making the goal off an assist by John Wozniak to take advantage of another power play situation. Kerry Loughran and Murray Cochrane combined on another power play goal in the first minute of the final period to bring the Elks within 3 points of the visitors, but Kitscoty scored again to stretch their lead. Alain Leclerc scored a final goal, assisted by Kerry Loughran and Allan Loughran, for the Elks with just over 3 minutes left on the clock, but the Monarchs had the last word with a replaying goal 34 seconds later.

Monday night, the action shifted to Kitscoty, where another huge crowd saw the Monarchs defeat the Elks 7-4, to tie the series at two games apiece.

The fifth and deciding game of the series goes tonight in Elk Point, with an 8:30 p.m. start. Come early, as seats may be at a premium for this one!

In Our View

Agriculture Week

This week, we salute the rural population of Alberta which makes up the agriculture industry. No, they buy a little place in the country and go back farming.

Agriculture, along with the big business it has become, is a way of life which means a great deal to almost every person involved in it. The rural train of thought doesn't go away when you change your blue jeans and rubber boots for the suit and shiny shoes of a city job. It just gets shoved to the back of the closet, until one day you find it and realize what you want more than anything is to go back to the land.

Hopefully, some time in the near future, the tide of economy will turn in agriculture's favor. Those who have held on in agriculture will put away the red ink and begin to prosper, and those who have been forced off the land will be able to return to their chosen lifestyle.

Agriculture—there's no life like it. (Sorry, National Defence, but it's the truth!)

Record Breaking Week

Last week at the Lakeland Review was truly a record breaker—almost enough to get us into the Guinness Book of Records—for the number of mistakes, that is.

We printed things which made people upset, and left out other things (which made other people upset). We left an uncorrected caption on a photo, and said that a hockey player who has been out of action for several weeks with an injury had gotten three assists in a game. We can just hope we got ALL the mistakes into that one issue, and there are none around to haunt us this week.

Our apologies to Wayne HAN-

SON and to Shamrock Valley Enterprises, regarding the picture appearing with correct caption on this page. Our apologies to the Town, regarding the WunderDogs misunderstanding. Our apologies to the Lioness Club, whose column got into the St. Paul Journal by mistake. Our apologies to the Minor Hockey Association, as no slight of any kind, to anyone, was intended. Our apologies to Richard Marcoux, who DID get 3 assists, and to Terry Wozniak, who didn't. Also, apologies to anyone else who we may have offended or annoyed.

The "ides of March," early leprechauns or whatever, we hope it's out of our system.

Gadowski Rink Takes Grand Challenge

Wayne Hanson presents the Canadian Salt Company trophies to the Shamrock Valley Enterprises rink, Leonard Gadowski, Murray Babcock, Les Meger and Ryan Thomas. Second place went to Bonnyville curlers Dave Dwan, Robert Hellum, Rob Sperber and Everett Smith.

Are we through with humankind?

Bylrene Magnusson

I hear that a lady in Fort McMurray, elected to Council there, revolts at being termed an 'Alderman' and has protested to the extent that she will henceforth be called a 'Councilor.'

Perhaps she would not have so revolted had she been termed an 'Alderwoman,' or, perhaps, an 'Alderperson.'

All of this got me thinking (I believe that's what it is), and these are some of my fiendish thoughts. First off - are we being silly? We are all members of the class of 'man' - (Homo), Homini-dae, if you prefer, or perhaps Homo Sapiens is more to your liking. 'Man' is defined in these fashions. Not until we come to the 4th definition, in my fat dictionary, does it state: male of the human race. So why the everlasting fuss?

I find it (again) silly [silly - adjective; destitute of ordinary good sense; (there are 23 definitions of silly in my book, all meaning about the same thing) - I will not go through all those] for people to be redefining the language in order to protest the pitiful, downtrodden lot of female homo sapiens. Surely there must be better ways.

One of the first of these silliosities noted was the 'chairman' fuss. A chairman is the one in charge of a meeting, or group, and sits in the 'chair,' - is, in fact, designated as leader of that assembly. That is his/her/its title for the duration of that assemblage. Now the silly begins: no longer are we to say 'chairman' - it may denote a sexist leaning, as if to say "only aman could hold this position." But we know many are women. Instead of saying 'chairwoman' if we can't stand the 'chairman' word, we go to 'chairperson.' This still sorts the gang out, because only women are called 'chairpersons.' Men are still 'chairmen.'

To me, anyone who chairs a meeting is a 'chairman,' since he/she/it is still a member of the Homo race, therefore a man.

Let us, for the fun of it, carry this silliness to its final conclusion. The urge of wopersonkind to place herself, he labors, talents, freedom, her space, efforts and her dignity on a level with the male of the species is strong. I fully agree it is far past time. But, please, let us use dignified, rational methods to do this - bash a few egos, if we must - but let us not resort to too much silliness.

We are not personacted, a group of personnikins blindly following the persondates of those whose only method of protest is a series of personeuvers designed to prove we are 'people.' Surely we knew this all along!

If wopersons have proved they have the personpower to personipulate and personhandle the fire hoses, the scalpels, the nightsticks, the cats and the personhole covers, surely they deserve to be called firepersons, surgeons, policepersons, catskinners and streetcleaners, without prejudice or favor.

Many wopersons could use a person-Friday to help out when the pinch is on, and this should not lessen their personhood, merely by being a flunky to a woperson, any more than it lessens hers if she lends a hand to a person in need of assistance.

Any of us should be allowed, irrespective of gender, to live in a personhouse or even a personse, if we are smart enough, and able enough to earn it. A personsized job can be undertaken by anyone, if they have the personpower, the personners, the perpersonent desire to do so, and all homo sapiens should be paid equally for equal skills and labor. There should be no separating lines, saying it is person's work or woperson's work.

A lady can be a foreperson, a doorperson, a compersonder, or a pieperson, as long as she is huperson - and therefore should be treated equally, in respect, honors, pay, opportunity and advancement, as any person, doing the same tasks.

If a woperson produces a personuscript of equal merit to that personufactured by a person, she will receive the same accolades, today. In years gone by, she may have been repersonsioned for acting in an unladylike way. Society would have depersonsioned her use a person's name, to hide her unwopersonly behavior. Wopersons are still compersonsioned, in some societies, not to propersonade barefaced, and are made to feel as if they are Roperson Numerals, unless hidden under a persontle.

Wopersons worked as personufac-turers, in dark, dingy, dismal conditions, until recent years, receiving persony put-downs, very low pay, and imhuperson treatment. Even today, when they go to University, they are referred to as Freshpersons. Some cannot obtain perpersonent jobs, if there is a fear they will want maternity leave. So it is true that wopersons MUST compersondeer their rights, and perhaps pull a few Copersonche Comperosondo tricks, but pule-e-ease, ladies, let us not be too silly about it.

Surely, we must follow the Ten Comperosondments, but let's not become members of "Person Sapiens" here on earth. Homo Sapiens have been here a long time, and may only need a bit of adjusting.

Surely, we must follow the Ten Comperosondments, but let's not become members of "Person Sapiens" here on earth. Homo Sapiens have been here a long time, and may only need a bit of adjusting.

Set your sights a little higher - issue a few persondates. Yes, you can become a personager, using more meaningful personeuvers, than by merely becoming a Chairperson, or an Alderperson. Try for BOSS.

Red Cross

Water Safety

Red Cross knows that WATER is the Elixir of Life. It knows, too, that water kills, when not understood and handled in the right way.

Water will support you, and give a great deal of pleasure, when you know how to swim. Red Cross has supplied instructions and teachers who have taught countless thousands the rules of Water Safety; How to swim; how to handle yourself in a boat, how to help others to safety when they are in troubled waters.

Red Cross has promoted the instruction of teachers, who conduct Water Safety classes all over the province. Perhaps you, or your children, have benefited from the Water Safety courses held for years at Whitney Lake? Similar courses are being planned, and held, somewhere in Alberta today. Money is needed to train these instructors, money you supply, when you give, generously, to the Red Cross canvasser who comes to your door.

ship' and an impromptu on 'If I Won A Million Dollars' won her the Junior title, with Jody Saranchuk as runner-up, while in the Pee Wee category, Pam Veer's affectionate look at 'My Grandma' and impromptu on her favorite school subject, earned her the trophy.

Other speakers were Matthew Veer, Kyle Bintz, Carrie Piotrowski, Marcy Bintz, Allan Baker and Carla Domstad. Hughie Krucik served as timer and Linda Piotrowski as teller.

The speak-off was held in the pleasant surroundings of Heritage Lodge, with many of the residents in attendance to enjoy the speeches.

Camrose Literary Arts Festival

by Irene Magnusson

It's great to find friends who have the same interests as myself. Even better when they invite me along to a 'do' I'd never have nerve enough to attend by myself. And so I went to the Literary Arts Festival in Camrose, February 9 and 10.

The Alberta Winter Games were scheduled for Camrose this year. Someone conceived the idea of having a number of Alberta writers (the successful ones) gather in Camrose, to read aloud from their works, to talk and visit, and to offer short workshops for would-be writers, prior to the actual Games.

Four members of the Ruthless Writers group drove over to Camrose, arriving in time to hear (surely the most widely known of Alberta authors?) W.O. Mitchell, read from his "Jake and the Kid" saga of life on the prairies in the dirty thirties. Later we gathered near, and he let us take his picture (with us). So we were all content.

The city made use of many facilities; Library, schools, College, Seniors' Centre, etc. Nearly thirty authors were listed, and no one person could attend that many readings, so we chose Andy Russell for our next reading. He read a bit from one of his "Mountain Men" stories, but his chief concern is for the environment just now, and he spoke passionately on aspects of the damage being done, all over the world, to the good earth on which we should be allowed to survive.

After registering at our hotel, and lunch, we went to another building, to hear Mark McCawley, a young man with excellent writing abilities, but a very bitter outlook on life, reading from several short stories and poems, excellent writing, but so depressing.

We "met the authors" in numbers in the evening, at a cheese-and-wine party, held in the Seniors' Centre, a wonderfully roomy and well-organized place. Some of those I spoke to were Don Lemna, Martyn Godfrey, Gladys Taylor, Fred Stenson, David Poulson from Vermilion, and others. Books by all the authors were available, supplied by the POP'LAR BOOKS store, and the authors were willing to autograph as requested.

On the second day, we went to the Camrose Composite High School to attend the sessions we had opted for. I chose Irene Morck, author of young adult books. Her presentation was clear and informative - and very interesting. Later, we were treated to lunch, and then were on our way.

It's a long time since I've been to Camrose, July of 1984, to be exact, when Clif and I drove over for my gold medal at the Seniors Summer Games. We went down and looked at the swans in the pond that day, drove around the city for awhile, and watched some of the games being played.

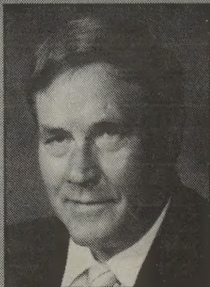

It's an interesting city, and we admired Billie Milholland's murals decorating buildings there. The drive home was uneventful. We had lots to think about.

AGRICULTURE WEEK 1990

"Here Come the '90s"

The 1990s promise to be an exciting time for agriculture in Alberta. The decade will bring further technological advances and new market opportunities, and will see the strengthening of ties among all of us who are involved in this fundamental industry. Together, we will work to ensure the continued growth of a competitive, sustainable agriculture sector in our province.

At Alberta Agriculture, we encourage farmers and processors to continue their excellent efforts in resource conservation and management. We are committed to helping them find the most efficient, environmentally-sound means of producing top quality products. In the coming decade, our ongoing programs in soil and water conservation, land management, research and education will be aimed at establishing a balanced, sustainable agriculture industry.

Agriculture Week 1990, March 11-17, will give Albertans an opportunity to share our optimism about the coming decade. As Ministers of Agriculture, we urge you to join us in celebrating Agriculture Week. Be a part of the future of agriculture in Alberta.

Your CA has more than tax
advice to offer

Of course the Chartered Accountant has undergone extensive training to keep your taxes at the legal minimum — no more, no less. But more than that, your CA has the practical, non-nonsense business experience to help you make smart management decisions. Decisions that will steer your business clear of hazards, and toward opportunities for growth and profit.

Historical Footnote
Practice review for public protection
Since 1981, Chartered Accountants practicing public accounting in Alberta have undergone mandatory reviews of their practice policies and procedures. The reviews are conducted to ensure that the high professional standards are maintained by Alberta CAs. Every firm — from sole practitioners to large national offices — is regularly assessed and judged for competency and compliance with these professional standards. In this way, the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Alberta strives to ensure the public's trust in the CA profession is well-deserved.

Recycle your paper

The Lioness Club and the Scouting Association are working together to try to make our community become more environmentally responsible.

We have a paper bin in front of the Scout Hall (the old courthouse) and behind the post office. So now we, the public need only put this bin to use. How and what do we recycle? Here are a few examples!

What: Newspapers, magazines, catalogues, newsletters, fliers, envelopes, computer, bond paper, towel or toilet paper rolls, cereal boxes or any cardboard boxes.

How: Newspapers and magazines can be bundled with string or twine, paper scraps, broken down boxes or other loose paper can be put in cardboard boxes or plastic garbage bags, (although the latter is not recyclable) and placed into the paper bin.

We have arranged with the Two Hills Lions Club to pick up the paper monthly or whenever needed. A correct way to save is have a small box or bag in you kitchen, in a cupboard, closet etc. In the case of working in an office, a small box beside your desk and THINK before you throw anything away, can it be recycled?

COVERAGE WITH ALL-RISK CROP
INSURANCE

INTRODUCING "INDEXING"

Indexing, the new method Alberta Hail and Crop Insurance Corporation will use to calculate coverage for producers who buy All-Risk Crop Insurance, protects farmers against fluctuations in production yields from year to year. With Indexing, farmers purchase crop insurance based on their own production, and coverage is determined by the farmer's production relative to the area.

These additional features, when combined with Indexing, provide even greater coverage stability:

- area estimates remain constant for three years
- annual coverage indexes can be no less than 70% and no greater than 130% of the farmer's past production trend to guard against abnormal years
- farmers' continuous participation over the years gives them a record that will help stabilize their coverage
- and more!

Ask about other changes to All-Risk Crop Insurance for 1990 - including a new set of 22 risk areas province-wide - at your local district office of Alberta Hail & Crop Insurance today!

March 31, 1990 is the last day to cancel Canada-Alberta All-Risk Crop Insurance and April 30, 1990 is the last day to apply for Canada-Alberta All-Risk Crop Insurance!

Oilmen's spiel a success

Elk Point Oilmen's 7th Annual Bonspiel has been declared another big success. Forty rinks took part in four days of curling and social events, which culminated in four very exciting final games late Sunday.

The first, or Heavy Oil Event, saw the Vulcan Electric rink, skipped by Don Clark, edge out Alchem's Ron Dinkel for the Norcen Energy Resources trophies. North Eastern Well Service claimed third place in the event, while Treasury Branch placed fourth.

The Oilsands Second Event went to the North American Road rink skipped by Jim Rupp, who took home the Tarsands Steam Cleaning trophies following their final win over the Miller Oilfield rink, skipped by Bernie Welin. Titan Electric came third in the event, with Shearer Supply fourth.

Elk Point's own E-Can No. 2 rink, skipped by Don Anderson, topped the Huff 'n' Puff Third Event for the BMW Monarch trophies with a win over Baker Oil Treatment, skipped by Clarence Romaniuk. Welch Canada placed third and GLM Tanks fourth in the event.

The Thermal Flood Fourth Event's trophies from B & R Eckels went to the Hi West Well Servicing rink skipped by Peter Thatcher, following their win over Spears Well Service, skipped by Jim Spears. Canadian Salt Plant finished in third place, with Guardian Inspection fourth.

Social events included bar nights, a smoker for the men and a casino night for the ladies, a banquet and dance, all well attended and much enjoyed by the participants.

And now...it's time to think about the golf season!
